

A photograph of a small, white-washed building with a wooden door and two crosses on the wall. The building has a gabled roof and a stone foundation. The door is dark wood with glass panels and lace curtains. There are two windows, one on the left and one on the right, both with dark frames. The wall is white with some peeling plaster. A sign is mounted on the wall above the door. Two wooden crosses are mounted on the wall, one on each side of the door. The sky is overcast.
